

Immigration Officer Selection

Final Interview

This is the last assessment procedure in which you will be actively engaged. You may see the final interview as a kind of check against you as a person, to see how well you may fit to work as an Immigration Officer. The questions are likely to be open and they can be on any topic.

Some common final interview formats:

- Many to 1 interview—the candidate will be interviewed by high ranking officers of the immigration Department.
- Languages used: English, Cantonese, and Putonghua
