Principal Investigator: Dr. King King LI

Grant Type: TSG

Abstract:

This project will greatly enhance my teaching of the course EF4485 Experimental Methods in Economics/Finance, which is a major course for BBA Business Economics students. Students will be guided to work on research projects, i.e., designing and running their experiments on topics of their own interest. Part of the funding will be used for students to run their own incentivized experiments. Students will be given chance to make their own discovery, i.e., through their own experimental projects, which may eventually lead to publications in academic journals. Second, part of the funding will be used for building a subject pool database for experiments.
