

whale fins influence wind turbine design

What do whale fins and the recent wind turbine have in common?

The latter is one of the human inventions that have been inspired by nature. In fact, we humans have been looking to nature – even copying it – for thousands of years!

The course of Learning from Nature is focused on what we have learned so far and what nature may lead us in the future as we explore nanotechnology and sustainable living on Earth.