

2016 The Hong Kong Mathematical Society Plenary Lecture

A Personal and Historical View of Computational Mathematics

Professor Tony Chan

President,

The Hong Kong University of Science and Technology

Abstract

In its modern incarnation, computational mathematics is a discipline that blossomed only after WWII. But even in its relatively brief history, there has been some major shifts in its methodology, emphasis, and applications. In this talk, I'll give a personal and historical view of this development, based on my own professional career and experience.
