Celebrating long-service

CityU has pioneered many new academic and research programmes, achievements made possible because CityU does not have the burden of history. We have been able to focus on our potential and CityU will always be a university by the city and for the city.

Professor Anthony Cheung Bing-ling, Department of Public and Social Administration

It's a great job for me at CityU because every member of the University is friendly and I have established a strong rapport in our work. What's more I enjoy the convenience as I live close by!

Mr Chan Yuen-chiu, Senior Artisan, Facilities and Management Office

My interest in library work, coupled with the rapid development of CityU's library, has kept me working here for the past 18 years. But more importantly, it is the friendly relationship with other departments that has made my work so fulfilling.

Ms Freda Ho Yu, Chau-ngor, Library Assistant, Library

“When I first joined in 1989, we were only starting to build the campus, but now it is well developed and the environment is a lot more pleasant. It gives me a lot of satisfaction to see people enjoying the campus and I hope its future development will make it even better.”

Mr Leo Wong Kwok-ling, Associate Manager, Campus Planning Office

CityU is a big family. We cherish the caring culture on campus and everyone works together for a better future. CityU is also a university of opportunities that allows its students and staff to develop to their full potential. We have been growing with Hong Kong and will continue to contribute as much as we can.”

Dr Ruth Yee Wing-yu, Associate Director, Student Development Services (20 yrs)

Focus

It has given me a lot of opportunities to do different things, both in teaching, research and in areas such as negotiating exchange programmes with mainland institutions.

Dr Robert Davison, Associate Professor, Department of Information Systems, and winner of the 2004-05 Teaching Excellence Award

I appreciate the support given by the University and my colleagues. Whenever I have a problem, I am given a lot of help. All these factors have contributed to my good health and well-being.

The new-look website caught the attention of the judges in the recent Web Care Awards 2006, part of the e-Inclusion Campaign that works to make websites more accessible. The campaign is run by the Internet Professional Association, and the website of the Department of Manufacturing Engineering and Engineering Management was rated “excellent”.

That was not only the CityU department to win such an accolade. Special features on the website of the Department of Computer Science designed by Dr Andy Chua Hon-wai, an associate professor, and Mr Ko Man-hung, an assistant computer officer, were also rated “excellent” in the same awards.

By re-designing our website to be more accessible, we are ensuring that people with physical disabilities can navigate our site more easily,” Dr Chua says. This job required a great deal of effort because the entire internal structure of the website had to be redesigned.

“Better and more accessible,” Dr Chua adds.

 Rankings

CityU has ranked in the top 200 universities in the world, according to the Times Higher Education Supplement (THES), which is considered one of the most prestigious ranking systems in the world. This is an impressive achievement for CityU, especially considering the small size of the university.

The THES ranking is based on a comprehensive set of criteria that takes into account a wide range of factors, including teaching, research, and international reputation. CityU has consistently performed well in these areas, making it a leader in Hong Kong and a respected institution in the global academic community.

The THES ranking is not the only one that CityU has achieved. The university has also been ranked highly in other prestigious rankings, such as QS World University Rankings and Shanghai Ranking.

These rankings demonstrate CityU's commitment to excellence in education and research, and its ability to attract top students and faculty. The university's success is a testament to the hard work and dedication of its students, faculty, and staff, as well as the support of its alumni and other stakeholders.

 Outing

In this autumn season, why not take a break from your routine and go on a nature walk to enjoy the beautiful scenery? CityU offers a variety of outdoor activities, such as hiking, cycling, and picnicking.

One option is to visit the Hong Kong Wetland Park, located just a short distance from CityU. The park is a natural paradise, with stunning views of the wetlands and a variety of wildlife. You can also explore nearby attractions, such as the Hong Kong Wetland Park Discovery Centre.

Another great option is to visit the Kowloon Park, which is easily accessible from CityU. The park is a popular spot for picnicking, playing sports, and taking a leisurely stroll.

CityU also offers guided tours of its campus, which is a great way to learn more about the university's history and culture. You can also take a bus tour of the surrounding area, which is full of interesting landmarks and attractions.
