

13 March 2009 (Friday)
3:00 – 4:15pm

Room P4803, 4/F Purple Zone, Academic Building (please use Lift 16)
City University of Hong Kong

SEARC presents the third part in our seminar series on the global financial crisis

After Dr. Jim Walker's scenario of the Hang Seng index at 8,000 points and Chinese growth falling to as low as 4%

and Dr. Simon Ogus's alarming description of Ponzi schemes

We present a more optimistic viewpoint on the global economy and Asia's near-term future.

A Discussion with Louis-Vincent Gave

Louis-Vincent Gave is CEO of the global financial services firm GaveKal. Educated at Duke University and Nanjing University, Mr. Gave is a former member of the French army. Since the 1990s, he has worked in global finance in Hong Kong, London and Paris. He left Paribas Capital Markets in 1999 to launch GaveKal Research. He is the main author of two books, Our Brave New World and The End is Not Nigh. GaveKal is well-known, among other things, for its economic research on China.
